Ye Olde County Fair Set For Oct.3

Ye Olde County Fair is scheduled for October 3 and 4 at the Rustburg Middle School. The fair is part of the national bicentennial celebration in Campbell County.

One of the benefits of the fair is that participants learn more about how to exhibit in a fair. Dr. Wes Judkins, horticulturalist for the Extension Service, visited the county to provide guidelines for a basis in selecting produce.

The fair Agriculture Department classes include tobacco, small grains, forage crops, eggs and honey. The classes were selected with the farming of the county in mind.

The Horticultural Department will include nearly all the locally grown vegetables - onions, green beans, potatoes, peppers and tomatoes! There will be a vegetable basket and a largest pumpkin class. In addition there will be displays of best single flower, potted geranium and hanging baskets. The local garden clubbers will be represented with a number of flower arranging classes - Autumn Glory, Minature, dried flowers, and all green.

This list represents a small selection from the many possible exhibits in the fair. Participation in the fair is open to all citizens of Campbell County. Fair handbooks are available from the County Extension Department to determine all classes available and see the rules governing the fair.

USDA Postpones '76 Wheat Allotment Notices

Wheat allotment notices, usually issued in August by USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), will be combined with 1976 feed grain notices and issued after the first of next year, James R. Ford, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County ASC Committee reported.

"By issuing only one allotment notice instead of three, we expect to cut county expenses and increases efficiency in program administration," Ford said.

The 1975 national wheat allotment of 61.6 million acres is 15 percent above the 1975 allotment. "Farmers who plan to plant wheat this fall can closely estimate their own 1976 wheat allotment by increasing their 1975 allotment by 15 percent."

Representing the number of acres of wheat needed to meet projected domestic and export demand, the national wheat allotment is used as a basis for making payments to wheat growers should the market price for wheat fall below the established target price, or if growers qualify for disaster payments.

Mr. Ford pointed out that no acreage set-aside will be required as a condition of eligibility for loans, target price and disaster payments and that the farm wheat allotment in no way limits the number of acres of wheat that may be planted. "Therefore, the size of the allotment will have no effect on winter wheat planting plans," he said.

Applicants for all ASCS programs will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

ASC COMMITTEE GIVEN LIVESTOCK FEED AUTHORITY

Eligibility for assistance under USDA's Emergency Livestock Feed Program will be determined by the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation(ASC) committee without prior approval from Washington, according to James R. Ford, Jr., Chairman of the Committee.

"The livestock feed program may be implemented by the county committee, with concurrence of the state ASC committee, when a natural disaster causes the farmer substantial loss of livestock feed normally grown on the farm," Mr. Ford said.

Under the program, feed grains owned by the Commodity Credit Corporation can be sold to eligible livestock owners at reduced prices. The assistance is to prevent widespread liquidation of livestock because of flood, drought, hurricane, tornado, earthquake, disease, insect infestation or other catastrophes.

Ford pointed out that program assistance is limited to those livestock owners who because of a natural disaster, are required to purchase large quanities of feed normally produced on the farm, and are unable to get it through regular trade channels without undue financial hardship.

In fiscal year 1975, 4.8 million hundredweight of feed grains were distributed under the livestock feed program to eligible applicants in 156 counties. About 26.8 million bushels of oats, the only feed grain available at this time for distribution under the program, are earmarked for this use.

Applicants for the Emergency Livestock Feed Program will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.
